Recognition of Prior Learning & Credit Transfer

Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL)

Skills and knowledge that have been developed through your personal and professional experiences can be recognised through RPL. Through a process of written questions, evidence collection and interviews, applicants can attempt to demonstrate competence in specific areas skill areas. Successful applicants will receive approved RPL unit outcomes and move through their course of study more quickly.

Please note that all RPL must be applied for prior to course commencement, and application and skill testing fees may apply depending on area of study.

Please speak with a Pivot Point representative to get customised information about RPL opportunities.

Credit Transfer

Students having completed study in the past may receive credit for units previously completed. This can reduce the study load and course duration by making some units exempt. Credits must have been acquired at Australian accredited training providers.

Please speak with a Pivot Point representative to get customised information about Credit Transfer opportunities.
