English Requirements

International students must have a good command of written and spoken English. If your first language is not English but can provide satisfactory evidence that English was the medium of instruction and assessment in your secondary or tertiary studies, you may be considered as meeting the Academy's requirement of proficiency in English. However, you may be required to meet the English language proficiency requirements of DIAC and will need to provide additional evidence of your English language proficiency when you apply for a Student Visa, usually requiring an IELTS score.

If English is not your first language or was not the medium of instruction and assessment in your secondary or tertiary studies, you are required to demonstrate your proficiency in the English language by providing certified or notarised documentary evidence of achieving the Academy's minimum prescribed level in ONE of the English examinations or tests listed below before you can receive a full offer of a place:

- IELTS (Academic)- 5.5 (No individual band below 5.0)
  - TOEFL paper based- 550
  - TOEFL computer based- 213
  - TOEFL internet based- 80s

Recognition of Prior Learning for Students Visa Holders

Skills and knowledge that have been developed through your personal and professional experiences can be recognised through RPL. Through a process of written questions, evidence collection and interviews, applicants can attempt to demonstrate competence in specific areas skill areas. Successful applicants will receive approved RPL unit outcomes and move through their course of study more quickly.

You may apply for RPL credits on the basis of your prior qualifications and/or workplace experience.

A completed RPL Application Form must be received four (4) weeks prior to the commencement of the course.

You may have your course duration shortened by the RPL process if the RPL credits can be granted for one or more competency units. If an RPL assessment leads to your study load being less than full-time, then you may be offered substitute subjects/competency units if available. The adjustment to the duration of your course due to RPL processes can occur before or after your student visa is issued.

The Academy is required to notify the Department of Immigration and Citizenship (DIAC) of any change in course duration after a visa has been granted. You must exit Australia at the adjusted end of your course or make arrangements to transfer to another course at the Academy.
